

CYBER SAFETY

What we've done...

Launched
the GOFISH
Campaign

Attended the Cyber Protect conference

Introduced Cyber Ambassadors

Held safety sessions at different schools

Created a Cyber Safety
Advent
Calendar

Collected
740 Big Conversation responses for Cyber

Appointed the Cyber Ambassador Coordinator

The Cyber Ambassadors scheme...

Primary

Secondary

The Cyber Protect Conference...

NSPCC – online playground, netaware.com, resource packages

O2 Gurus – go in to there store for free and get 1:1 appointments

Tanya Goodin – Digital Detox and the age of Internet Adolescence

Scott McGready – Ethical Hacker and talk on control, being aware, sextortion

Safe4Me – Talk on Youth Produced Sexual Imagery

Operation Usher @HantsCyberProtect

What young people said...

“The internet is a growing phenomenon, making young people use it. They are vulnerable to abuse and manipulation, so safety is paramount.”

“The Cyber Ambassadors are a good idea for people with cyber difficulties to have someone to speak to.”

“All my friends have Snapchat, so I got it too. It can destroy a lot of your confidence and make you feel you are alone.”

“Laws in terms of online abuse, fraud, and data theft are nowhere near up to date.”

“The elderly can be exploited because they don't have the education and support that teenagers do.”

“I don't think that people are aware that what they are doing is against the law.”

“My older sister and I were bullied online because of our disabilities.”

Our recommendations...

1) Awareness of legislation

“Terms and conditions are far too long, they need to be shorter so we can read and understand our rights.”

2) Education

“We need to educate young people on how prominent cybercrime is and how to stay safe whilst online by going to schools and doing talks to people who are not in education.”

3) Educating adults

“We need to try and provide more help for vulnerable people to become more adept in using the internet, like free lessons on how to use computers.”

4) Promotion of healthy social media use

“We need to start a Campaign in order to raise awareness of risks due to expectations of society on teenagers.”